(DALLAS, TEX.) September 1, 2011 – Entrepreneur mentor Ali Brown will be the keynote presenter at the National Association of Women MBAs (NAWMBA) Annual Conference and Career Fair, taking place Saturday, September 17, 2011 in Dallas, Texas.

Dubbed by Business News Daily as the “entrepreneurial guru for women”, Brown leads over 50,000 women around the world in her programs at www.AliBrown.com, which provides education, resources, and community for women who want to start or grow their own businesses.

NAWMBA is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to empowering female business professionals, to propel more women into leadership positions, and to enhance the diversity of the nation's workforce. The organization's mission is a natural fit for Brown, who has fast become the voice for women's entrepreneurial success.

Brown's keynote presentation at the NAWMBA's annual conference, “Climb the Corporate Ladder by Thinking Like an Entrepreneur”, aims to inspire women to take charge of their success, whether they are vying for the corner office or growing their own business.

“Today women make up more than half the U.S. workforce, and it's important they are prepared to lead,” says Brown, whose own entrepreneurial career launched after years in the corporate world. “When speaking to women, I focus on personal development just as much as business development, because it's critical in helping them thrive in today's corporate environment.”

The NAWMBA Annual Conference and Career Fair takes place at the brand new Irving Convention Center in the Dallas/Fort Worth area of Texas. Over 1,000 women in business will be in attendance to network and learn, while seeking career opportunities and advancement. To learn more, go to www.MBAwomen.org.
